A Natural
RemedyTime was when disease was thought to be due to the direct influence of evil spirits, and exorcism and magic were invoked to cast it out.Science has taught us wisdom. The evil spirits exist still. We call them "Disease Germs," and they also must be cast out. Once lodged in the stomach or intestines, fever, with hallucinations, or biliousness with its aches and pains, is the result.ENO'S FRUIT SALTis the approved remedy for driving out disease germs. Its action is quick and thorough. It clears the intestines, rouses the torpid liver to new life, stimulates the mucous membrane to a healthy action, and cleanses and invigorates the whole digestive tract.It may be safely taken at any time by young or old.It is very effective in the early stage of Diarrhoea by removing the irritating cause.

(BY FRICIVAL A. HEMMEL.)

General Winter is recognised by everyone as a force of the first importance in land warfare. In him is the power of sundering communications, of turning meadow-land to marsh and roads to rivers, of destroying great armies in his chill embrace. At a single stroke he can end one campaign—and make another possible; but his dominion stops short of the free and open sea. A finger here and there—in the Baltic and the White Sea—reminds us of his power to close narrow waters to ships, and even, at times, to open them to the passage of armies; but his influence on the trend of a naval campaign is small.His consort in maritime affairs might well be titled "Admiral Keep-the-Sea," for he is the predominant force where men go down to the sea in ships. He that keeps the sea commands it; he that cannot command it is perforce driven off it—driven into the safe seclusion of harbour, whence the submarine cannot enter, where mine-fields have no terror and navigation no perils. The German fleet, harboured in snug coves between Emden and Kiel, knows nothing of the dangers that hundreds of British warships are facing day and night—a comparison that is not without its moral with "Dut Tag" still lying in the dim and distant future.The last few weeks have brought home some of these dangers even to the most staid of us. The armoured cruiser "Argyll" and the destroyer "Luis," have been lost through stranding; the "Huythoe" and "T. B. No. 96" were sunk in collision; and other vessels, not attached to the Naval service, however, have been mined. It is a notable fact that while we have as yet lost only three ships through the gun-fire of the German navy, no fewer than ten have been accidentally destroyed, the list including, besides those already named, the "Bal-work" and "Princess Irene" (stranded), the "Viktor" and "Clan Mac-Naughtin" (foundered), and the submarine "A.E.," lost from some unknown cause off the Australian coast.The facts are less remarkable, however, when we look back at the history of the Navy, for it proves that in the most hard-fought of our naval campaigns "Admiral Keep-the-Sea" was always a more relentless and costly foe than our declared enemies. Between the resumption of the war with France in 1893 and the end of it in 1915, we lost no fewer than 234 warships of various types, not including those that were taken by the enemy and subsequently recaptured, and of these only 99, or less than 27 per cent., were taken or destroyed in action.ACCIDENTAL LOSSES.
One hundred and eighty were lost before and after the war—on an average of fourteen a year; 66 put to sea and never made the land again, overwhelmed and lost in heavy storm, and the remaining seven were for the most part accidentally burnt at their moorings. Two hundred and thirty-eight ships, therefore, were sacrificed to the obligation which rested upon the British Fleet to keep the sea. In those days, weather counts for less than it did as a maker of casualties, though man has not yet succeeded in making navigation safe in fog, or for a number of ships patrolling narrow waters on a dark night with all lights out. The forefathers of the Fleet, too, had neither the modern mine nor the sinking submarine to worry about.In recent times, before the war, the Navy has suffered some severe blows through misfortune of one sort or another at sea. In 1870 the ironclad "Captain" capsized in the Bay of Biscay owing to fifty days, and went to the bottom with 472 officers and men. Five yearslater the battleship "Vanguard" was rammed and sunk by a sister ship, the "Iron Duke," but on this occasion there was, fortunately, no loss of life. In 1873
the "Eurydice," a training frigate, capsized in a squall off the Isle of Wight;
and two years later, to the month a similar vessel, the "Atalanta," disappeared at sea without leaving the slightest trace behind.In later years the ramming of the "Victoria" and the vanishing of the "Condor" in the Pacific will be recalled; but it is worth remark that in the period of naval concentration in Home waters, during which the amount of time spent by our vessels in war training at sea vastly increased, these accidental losses diminished wonderfully, and in the ten years from 1904 onwards we lost in this way only three vessels of any size:
the battleship "Montagu" and the cruiser "Bedford"—by grounding; and the cruiser "Gladstone" in collision.OLD-TIME SUPERSTITIONS.
It is not infrequently stated that the Admiralty studiously avoid repulsive names when christening our warships, because of the ill-luck which is supposed to attend ships so named. It is perhaps rather curious that our losses in the last thirty years include a "Scorpion," a "Cobra," a "Wyvern," but if the authorities were to exclude from the Navy list every name that might be associated with accident or disaster they would have precious little ground left to work upon. The immediate predecessor of Nelson's "Victory" was lost at sea with all hands in 1745;
and there are 41 names among our destroyers, alone that were borne by ships lost between 1800 and 1815.As for repulsive, they are not at all badly represented in the Fleet. There is a "Lizard," a "Chamoleon," a "Bas-ilisk," (the name sometimes given to the so-called flying lizard) and even a "Battlesnake."One of these old-time superstitions that still struggles along is the sailor's dislike for a ship whose name has been changed; and those who "believe in"
this sort of thing may be expected to find much support in the record of the present war. Among our own losses we find that the "Good Hope" was originally named "Africa," the "Triumph," "Liberty,"
the "Pathfinder," "Eastree,"
the "Louis," "Talisman," torpedo boat
No. 10, "Greenfinch," and No. 12, "Moth," while the "Viktor" was the "Viking," and the "Barr" the "Hibernia."On the other hand, some of the most useful and effective work of the war has been done by the "L" class of destroyers, every one of which has a name different from that which it originally bore. If there were anything in the theory of bad luck attending a change of name (which, of course, there is not), there would be a large number of people of German origin in this country who seriously doubt as to what the future might have in store for them!—The

THE SANITARY BOARD ELECTION.

TO THE ELECTORS.

GENTLEMEN,

I have been requested by a large number of my friends to offer myself as a candidate at the forthcoming Sanitary Board Election.

I was born and educated in Hongkong and am a Bachelor in Surgery and Bachelor of Medicine of the University of Hongkong since 1912. During that time my work has taken me mainly among the middle and poor classes, and I have thus had peculiar opportunities of realizing the hygienic needs of those who live on the lower levels and in Kowloon, and of seeing wherein lies the need for sanitary reform in the Colony as a whole.

I have made—and am making—a close study of Hygiene, and not merely from a theoretical point of view, and I venture to claim that my ideas and methods on all sanitation questions are practical and up to date. My work as Medical Officer to many large charitable institutions amongst which are the Blind Home at Kowloon and the St. Lewis Industrial School (West Point) provides me with an ever increasing stock of valuable experience.

Should you see fit to elect me to the position created by the departure of Dr. Finlay, I readily pledge myself to follow the excellent lines laid down by that gentleman—especially in regard to the water-carriage system and other important matters.

I am an advocate for efficiency combined with strict economy, and I pledge myself to keep always in mind the general all-round welfare of the ratepayers and other inhabitants of Hongkong.

I have the honour to remain, Gentlemen, your obedient servant.

F. M. GRACA OZORIO.

M.B., B.S.

Hongkong, Feb. 15, 1916.

SANITARY BOARD ELECTION.

TO THE ELECTORS.

GENTLEMEN,

At the request of several prominent residents of the Colony, I have decided to offer myself as a candidate at the forthcoming election to the Sanitary Board—I therefore venture to place before you my qualifications as follows:

(1) Fellow, Late Lecturer and Member of the Executive Council Incorporated Institute of Hygiene, London.

(2) Late Lecturer in Biology, Demonstrator in Physiology and Member of School Council, Middlesex Hospital, London.

(3) Professor of Physiology and Biology, University of Hongkong.

Should I be successful in obtaining your confidence and be elected, it will always be my endeavour to support the adoption of those sanitary measures which modern science shows are so necessary for the preservation of health and the prevention of disease.

Yours faithfully,

H. G. EARLE, M.A., M.B. (Canab.)

CHINESE ENGINEERING & MINING CO.

The Chinese Engineering & Mining Co. held its third annual ordinary general meeting in London on December 17 to receive the directors' report and accounts for the year ended June 30, 1915. From a copy of the report, received by the general meeting, it is seen that the gross profit of the Kailash Mining Administration, under which the mines of this company and those of the Lanchow Mining Company, are carried on a joint undertaking, amounted to $5,448,700.50, less expenses of $1,000,000, leaving a net profit of $4,448,700.50. The proportion of profit to which the Chinese Provincial Government is entitled ($1,033,316.05), and other items, there remains a net profit of $3,415,384.45, which is divisible as follows: 60 per cent. to the Chinese Engineering and Mining Co., and 40 per cent. to the Lanchow Mining Company, Limited.

This amount brought to the credit of the company's profit and loss account, including interest in China, less certain small expenses, is $1,614,428.84. d. Interest and other items bring up the total credit to $1,714,144.34. d. After deducting administration and other expenses of $159,097.84. 10d., adding the sum of $52,568.54. 7d. brought forward from the last account, and deducting the sum of $12,176.12. 11d. for Income Tax, there remains a variable balance of $1,595,495.12. 11d.

An interim dividend of five per cent. free of income tax, was paid on May 15, 1915. The board propose that a further dividend of five per cent. be declared; free of income tax (making a total of ten per cent. for the year) payable on December 21, and that the balance, $99,159.12. 11d., be carried forward to the next account.

Notwithstanding the difficulties caused by the war in Europe, the report says, business done by the Kailash Mining Administration showed an increase which was, however, counteracted by the fall in the rate of exchange. The total sales of coal for the year amounted to 2,392,323 tons.

BEWARE OF COUGS.

CHILDREN are much more likely to contract the contagious diseases when they have colds. Whooping cough, diphtheria, measles, scarlet fever, and consumption are diseases that are often contracted when the child has a cold. That is why all medical authorities say beware of colds. For the quick cure of colds you will find nothing better than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It can always be depended upon, and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all Chemists and Storekeepers.

THE METAL MARKET.

The annual report for 1915 of Messrs. Wm. Jackson & Co. states:—The fluctuations in prices during the past twelve months will in themselves make the year 1915 a memorable one in the Metal Trade.

Looking back we can see the effects of the formation of a standing army of some four million men, a Navy with one million and the remaining available labour of the country mainly engaged in producing Munitions of War, combined with the great and growing scarcity of shipping, brought about by the duplicating at various points on the map of our initial Expeditionary Force and the consequent enormous rise in freight.

In ordinary times trade demands contract as prices rise, and practically vanish as the advance is carried beyond a certain level, but all past experience counts for nothing under present conditions. The War profits which have accrued to our American friends have led to a sharp revival in the Home demand there which has gone far to accelerate the upward tendency that has prevailed throughout the entire year.

Iron—Cleveland prices sagged early in the year on the general slackness prevailing in the Foundry Trade and stocks increased, but the rising freights made importations of American iron impossible, and with the rise of 50s per ton in Hematite and similar advances in coal and coke it was impossible for Cleveland iron not to follow.

Copper has had wide fluctuations, due no doubt partly to American manipulation of the market, their increasing output of electrolytic copper, and the fact that the War has not been so much affected indirectly by the War, and the fluctuations have been chiefly caused by the giving and withholding of Export Licenses by the Government. The fact that no Home demand bound has been sent to the bottom during the year must be source of great satisfaction to consumers and underwriters—if not to speculators.

Lead has moved both ways like Copper, depending largely upon the Russian demand, earlier in the year, and later on the rapid rise in its freight, which, of course, is reflected in lead to a much greater degree than in copper or spelter.

Spelter rose £37 in the first six months of the year, principally on the fact that all these used in the camps throughout the country were supplied galvanised. By the time a suitable substitute for spelter was discovered by the Government, it was too late to prevent the price of spelter from reaching its maximum.

Copper—The Transatlantic freight contracts at 17s. 6d. per ton are a thing of the past, and freights are now three to four times that figure. The block at New York and the scarcity of shipping facilities are likely to prevent any serious set back in prices of electrolytic copper, and stocks of standard copper are small and easily manipulated.

Zinc—There seems no reason to look for important fluctuations in this metal, as supply and demand seem evenly balanced, and the Government have taken steps to limit the stocks in the country are kept at a reasonable level. This metal is also less affected by peace prospects than any of the others.

Lead—It seems to be doubtful whether the position in Mexico has really improved or not, but any prospect of more serious conditions there would appear to us to make lead at £30 seem on a high basis.

Spelter—It is to be hoped that producers in this country will be able gradually to increase their production in conjunction with our Australian friends and so make an independent of outside supply, but this will take time, and under present conditions it does not seem probable that America will allow the position to ease.

We trust that early in 1916 the present situation, both as regards peace and prices, will be replaced by a happier and better state of things.

SIR G. REID IS A BASE.

Sir George Reid, High Commissioner for Australia, told this story against his own bulk at a Christmas dinner to Amcas in London. "I met Sir Ian Hamilton in one of the clubs and told him I wanted to go to the front," he said. "I told him I was a bit of a walker, that when I went shooting I nearly shot myself, and that when I got on a horse I didn't know whether I should get off when I wanted to or not. But I said, 'Why can't you let me go to the front as an armoured fort?'" Sir Ian looked me up and down and said, "Well, Sir George, I don't think we could send you to the front as an armoured fort, but I think we might make a base of you."

THE SANITARY BOARD ELECTION.

THE election of a member of the Sanitary Board to fill the vacancy created by the departure of Dr. G. H. FITZWILLIAMS takes place this evening at the City Hall between the hours of 4 and 6 o'clock. The two candidates—Dr. H. G. EARLE, and Dr. F. M. GRACA OZORIO—may be said to be practically unknown to the bulk of the electors—that is to say the British residents represent the majority on the electoral list. Dr. EARLE, who is a Professor of Physiology and Biology at the University, has but recently come to the Colony; but Dr. OZORIO was born and educated in Hongkong, and must therefore be well known to many, especially in the Portuguese community, and this community provides a very considerable number of voters for this election. It cannot be said that the contest provokes any excitement, for there is no policy advocated which gives rise to much difference of opinion. Dr. OZORIO pledges himself to follow "the excellent lines" laid down by Dr. FITZWILLIAMS—especially in regard to the water-carriage system and other important matters; to advocate "efficiency combined with strict economy," and promises to "always keep in mind the general all-round welfare of the ratepayers and other inhabitants of Hongkong." Dr. EARLE says it will always be his endeavour to support the adoption of those sanitary measures which modern science shows are necessary for the preservation of health and the prevention of disease. Dr. EARLE's special studies in Hygiene and his high qualifications give in themselves assurance of his deep interest in such questions as are within the province of the Sanitary Board, and this may be considered a good offset to his shortness of residence. That two such candidates should have been put forward for election is a gratifying proof of civic interest in the Colony. It is for the electors to choose between them, and since it is a choice between men rather than policies we need say no more on the subject than bid the electors do their duty as citizens.

The death at home of Sir Cecil Clement Smith will ever be deplored by the boys of the Straits Settlements, says the Singapore Free Press. It was to his active support, if not to his direct initiation, when Colonel Secretary, that the two Queen's Scholarships were established, by which the two most advanced boys in the Schools of the Colony, after a competitive examination, were sent home every year to complete their education. Amongst those who had profited by it in Singapore are such well known men as the Hon. Mr. Dr. Lim Boon Keng, Messrs. Wong Yee Sang, Rans Eder, C. H. de Silva, Dr. de Souza, Dr. Clarke, and some others. The reduction to one scholarship, and its eventual abolition, was a retrograde step on the part of the Government.

DEATH OF MR. JOHN FORBES.

END OF A FINE ATHLETIC CAREER.

We regret to have to record the death, which took place at the Peak Hospital this morning, of Mr. J. Forbes, of the China Sugar Refinery, and one of the best all-round athletes who had ever resided in Hongkong.

Deceased was a well known boxer, and for the past six years held the amateur championship of the Colony for welter, middle and heavy weights. He was in great demand as a trainer, and had trained most of the professional boxers who, from time to time, visited the Colony, including Billy Bellow of Manila and Roy Kestry, the American boxer. "Jack" Forbes last appeared in the ring locally at the City Hall about 18 months ago when he knocked out Thompson of R.M.S. Menomouth in the primary contest in a programme arranged by Mr. F. E. Hall. "Jack" was also a clever cyclist and held the Hongkong championship for many years. In yachting and rowing he also excelled, and held several C.Y.C. championships and rowed in several winning boats at V.R.C. Regattas, including, we believe, an International Scotch four. Swimming and water polo also found in him a keen and capable exponent and he was one of the Hongkong team that visited Shanghai two seasons ago. In tennis and football he also took a large interest. He won numerous trophies and cups and his collection is regarded as the finest ever held by a local athlete.

His demise has depleted the realm of sport of a popular and accomplished member, and his death will be widely regretted in sporting circles.

During the last few months he had been in failing health and five weeks ago he was compelled to go into hospital. He was always cheery and jovial and looked eagerly forward to the time when he would be well again, but death overtook him as a result of a growth on the liver, the end being not unexpected.

The deepest sympathy will be felt for Mr. Alexander Forbes, his brother, Mr. John Rodger and other relatives in the Colony and at home.

THE MAGISTRACY.

A Chinese was summoned for conveying carcasses of pigs from the slaughter house otherwise than in a wheeled and covered cart. The case was remanded till Thursday.

Li Sze was charged by Inspector Terrell before Mr. Hazland with unlawfully having in her possession 4 lbs. of loose opium found on her by a Chinese revenue officer. The case was remanded till Monday, bail being fixed at $400.

Mr. T. Hayashi, manager of the Mitsui Bussan Kaisha Steamship Company, was summoned before Mr. Wood for causing to be affixed to Crown property, namely the wall of the steps from Queen's Road Central to Battery Path, a poster advertising "Asahi" beer.

Defendant, who explained that the poster had been put there through the mistake of a coolie, was fined $1.

ANNOKED BY A DOG.

G. A. B. de Silva, 1 Barrow Terrace, Kowloon, summoned V. B. de Souza, 3 Barrow Terrace, Kowloon, before Mr. Hazland, for keeping a dog accustomed to annoy passengers.

Mr. J. H. Gardiner said he appeared for Mr. Leo D'Almeida, who was indisposed. The case was fixed for Thursday next.

ALLEGED THEFT FROM A SHIP.

Chan Ping Nam, alias Chan Kaa, was charged by Detective-Sergeant Willis before Mr. Hazland with stealing from the s.s. Kolya, lying at Kowloon Docks, 200 lbs. of paint, seven pieces of sail-cloth, and a quantity of rubbish and old rope, total value $143, the property of Messrs. Thomson and Co.

Captain James Wilcox, master of the Kolya, was the complainant, the defendant being represented by Mr. E. J. Grist, of Messrs. Wilkinson and Grist.

Mr. A. M. Preston, of Messrs. Johnson, Stokes and Master, appeared to prosecute when the case was taken later in the morning.

Outlining the case, Mr. Preston said that on February 18th the Kolya was lying at the Kowloon Wharf. Defendant came on board and asked the 2nd mate, who was then in charge, whether he might remove certain rubbish that was lying on the deck. As they would otherwise have had to pay for the removal of the rubbish, he gave the defendant permission, giving him a bill allowing him to pass with it. Defendant had taken, not the rubbish, but the articles mentioned in the charge. He (Mr. Preston) understood that the defence was that the man said he bought the goods from the second officer.

Mr. Grist:—We bought them from one of the officers. I don't know which one it was.

Harry Ward, second officer of the Kolya, identified the goods in question as the ship's property. The boat was not present when he told defendant to come and take the rubbish that was on deck. Witness then took, returning at 4 o'clock. The rubbish was on the upper deck. The stolen goods were in the two decks, but he could not say about the paint. The lamp trimmer had run away.

Evidence of the goods being put on board her boat was given by a boatman who took defendant to and from the ship.

Defendant, on oath, said he was a marine hawker. He paid $40 to the second officer personally for the goods. The boatman saw the money paid. The crew assisted him in putting the goods on to being put on, and then gave him a pass. The boatman said he saw defendant give a small bundle of notes to the second officer. Defendant was discharged.

SUMMARY COURT DIFFICULTIES.

INTERNEED AND DEPORTED DEFENDANTS.

Defendant is now in Sydney as one of the interned prisoners who went from here on the "Empire," said Mr. J. H. Gardiner, in the Summary Court this morning, in a case in which Messrs. Tai Cheung sued J. Jaram for $11.50 for goods supplied.

Mr. Gardiner added that the man had not been served, but there was a fund in the Colony which had been attached. The man had admitted the claim with the exception of a coat, which plaintiff said they had not got. He had a letter from the Camp Commandant.

Mr. Justice Gompertz: How can I try it in the man's absence?

Mr. Gardiner said he was entitled to it on a writ of foreign attachment.

His Lordship said he would consider the case in Chambers to-morrow.

In another case Mr. Goldring said he appeared for the defendant who had been deported from the Colony. If his Lordship would adjourn it for a week, he would probably be able to make some arrangement.

Mr. Grist, for the plaintiff, agreed and the case was adjourned.

SUED BY A SERVANT.

At the Summary Court this morning before Mr. Justice Gompertz, Wong Yung, a cook-boy, sued his master, Mr. Macfarlane, for $15 wages in lieu of notice. His Lordship:—(Mr. Macfarlane) I understand that you took out a summons against this boy at the Magistracy. Did you tell the Magistracy before he tried that this case was pending here?

Mr. Macfarlane:—No. I told the Magistracy's clerk and showed him the summons. His Lordship:—Apparently the Magistracy did not understand that this action was pending here. If he had known he would not have tried the case. I understand that he fined the man $10 and he stands that he fined the man $10 and he tells me now that he has suspended the fine, shall I give the case?

After evidence had been given by Mr. Macfarlane, judgment was given against the plaintiff, his Lordship telling him he should not have left his master's employ ment in the way he did.

COMPANY MEETING.

KOWLOON LAND AND BUILDING COMPANY, LIMITED.

The 27th ordinary meeting of the shareholders in the Kowloon Land and Building Company Ltd. was held at the offices of the company to-day. There were present:—

Mr. T. F. Blough (presiding) Messrs J. Rodger, T. E. Pearce, (directors); Mr. M. S. Northcott (acting secretary); Messrs E. H. Seeh, A. A. Fyfe, and E. B. Shepherd.

The Chairman moving the adoption of the report and accounts—said:—I regret to say that the year's working does not compare favourably with that of the previous year, the net result being $5,035.04 short of the profit made for 1914.

The explanation of this is, of course, not far to seek, due as it is to the falling off in rents arising from the loss of many of our former tenants from War causes, and I regret to say that we have several of our houses still vacant. I have little doubt, however, but that when times improve they will again readily let.

Mr. E. Sarré seconded and the motion was unanimously carried.

The appointment of Mr. T. E. Pearce to the directorate in the place of Mr. A. Rodger resigned, was confirmed, on the motion of Mr. Sarré seconded by Mr. Northcott.

Messrs J. Rodger and Pearce were re-appointed directors on the motion of Mr. Sarré seconded by Mr. Sarré.

Mr. Rodger proposed and Mr. Pearce seconded the appointment of Mr. E. Percy Smith as auditor, which was carried.

The Chairman announced that dividend warrants were ready and could be had on application.

DEATH OF THE "LINAN'S" CHIEF OFFICER.

CORONER'S INQUEST.

An inquiry was held by Mr. F. A. Hazland at the Magistracy this afternoon into the circumstances of the death of William Oliver Ashworth Shepherd, Chief Officer of the s.s. Linan.

Mr. E. J. Gedge appeared on behalf of Messrs Butterfield and Swire, and Mr. C. D. Wilkinson on behalf of the O. A. Ka Shuen Kaisha, as owners of the Devin Maru.

The jury was composed of Messrs Theodore Johnson, Francis Bavington and Duarte Eltonio Maria de Souza.

Mr. Hazland (to jury):—This is a death inquiry respecting the death of one W. O. A. Shepherd, late chief officer of the s.s. Linan. On the 2nd instant at about 10.15 a.m. a serious collision took place near Swatow between the said Linan and the Japanese steamer, the Devin Maru, which resulted in the Devin Maru being sunk with the loss of 183 lives.

The deceased was on the bridge at the time of the collision. The Linan was badly damaged in the bow and went into the 6th instant, that is, four days after the collision, deceased was found dead in his bunk while the ship was in dock at Quarry Bay. The body was sent to the Public Mortuary, and afterwards portions of the remains were sent to the Government Analyst, who reported that no poison was present in the parts submitted to him.

Mr. Dorey was called to confirm that Dr. Macfarlane, Medical Officer at the Public Mortuary, would testify that the important organs of the deceased's body showed considerable disease. Dr. Macfarlane was of opinion that the cause of death was heart failure due to fatty degeneration of the heart.

Having regard to the fact that deceased was found dead so soon after the collision, he (Mr. Hazland) had considered it his duty as Coroner to hold a public inquiry with a jury. The bottles found in deceased's cabin were also sent for analysis but the report was not yet ready, and having regard to the Analyst's report on the portions of the body he had not felt justified in delay, nor did he think it necessary to delay the inquiry.

Mr. C. McI. Member (Captain Superintendent of Police) mentioned that the collision occurred about 12.15 a.m. on the morning of the 2nd February.

Evidence was then given by Mr. E. R. Dorey, Government Analyst.

Dr. Macfarlane, Medical Officer in charge of the Public Mortuary, gave evidence as to the fatty condition of the heart.

The Captain Superintendent of Police:—Would you consider that the anxiety caused by the collision would affect the heart?—I think it might.

The Captain Superintendent:—Is it usual in cases like this to send the organs to the Analyst to test the poison?—It is very usual practice in cases of sudden death.

Mr. E. R. Dorey, recalled, said, in answer to Mr. Gedge, that his analysis of the organs deceased would exclude sulphur, veronal, anti-pyren and aspirin.

Captain E. D. Pottinger, master of the Linan, deposed that deceased was on the bridge at the time of the collision. Witness saw him a minute afterwards on the bridge. He was not excited.

The Linan's ship's boy said that Mr. Shepherd told him on the morning of the 2nd that he had pains in his leg and did not want any tea. At night he said he did not want dinner, and was "out" if anyone came. He had a small bottle of champagne brought to him at 11 p.m. Deceased drank one glass only. The next morning at 5.30 the boy told witness that he had knocked at deceased's cabin door three or four times without getting an answer. Witness and the quartermaster went along and found deceased dead.

A verdict of "Death from natural causes" was returned.

MARINE COURT.

EXCESS PASSENGERS ON A LAUNCH.

Wong Pak, master of the Yau-tai ferry launch "Tai Cheung," was charged on remand before Commander Beckwith at the Marine Court this morning with carrying 20 passengers in excess of the number allowed by his license.

Mr. W. B. Hind, of Mr. G. E. Hall, Branton's office, appeared to defend.

Mr. Hind said he had advised the man to plead guilty.

Commander Beckwith:—Are they going to plead guilty to both of them lying?

Mr. Hind:—No, your Worship. They still stick to their own story and say it must have been other members of the crew to whom Mr. Moore spoke.

Commander Beckwith:—Does the co-accused still plead he knows nothing about it?

Mr. Hind:—He says he saw Mr. Moore but he does not remember speaking to him about the number of passengers.

If your Worship will ask him, I think defendant will withdraw his plea of not guilty.

Defendant said he pleaded guilty to an excess of 10 passengers.

Mr. Hind said he could only say in mitigation that it was the day before Chinese New Year and there would be more people travelling, and perhaps they were a little careless.

His Worship said that was the first conviction against the defendant and he proposed to deal lightly with him. He fined him $50, or a month's imprisonment.

ON BOARD SHIP WITHOUT PERMISSION.

A Chinese was charged with being on board the Empress of Russia without permission.

Mr. H. Fielding, Master-at-arms of the Empress of Russia, said that about 10 yesterday morning defendant came up from below with some cooked food and went to pass on to the gangway. Witness asked him what he was doing and defendant ran away and hid himself, the search for him lasting an hour and a half. When found he said he was a substitute working on board for a Chinese cook. Inquiries were made, but no one on board knew the defendant.

Defendant said he went on board to get some pig food. The cook had given him permission.

Defendant was sentenced to 14 days' hard labour.

In conformity with His Holiness the Pope's desire, His Lordship Bishop Poretti has issued an exhortation to his flock to add to the Litany of Loreto the invocation "Regina Pacis ora pro nobis" (Queen of Peace, pray for us) after the invocation "Regina Scelerismitis Rosari" ora pro nobis" (Queen of Most Holy Rosary, pray for us).

THE WAR.

TO-DAY'S TELEGRAMS.

(Reuter's Service to the China Mail.)

RUSSIA'S GREAT SUCCESS.

ERZERUM'S 1,000 GUNS.

HEROIC EFFORTS OF THE RUSSIAN FORCES.

PETROGRAD, Feb. 17.

The Official Messenger estimates that Erzerum had a garrison of 100,000 officers and men and 467 guns, while the advanced force had 37½ guns and the central force 200.

LONDON, Feb. 17.

The German attacks on the Western Front have been promoted by a desire to impress neutrals, especially the Eastern States, but Russia's great stroke at Erzerum has done far more effective in that direction.

Erzerum is the key of Asia Minor, commanding the sole road open to the Russians towards the Mesopotamian from Asia.

Trebizond is unlikely to resist long. Then the Allies will have an unbroken line from the Black Sea to the North-Eastern edge of Mesopotamia.

Besides the victorious army at Erzerum, the Russians have two other armies in the Caucasus—one on the Black Sea littoral, the other in the region of Lake Van.

The capture of Erzerum removes the chief obstacle to raids on Turkish communications with Mesopotamia and facilitates the linking up of the British and Russian forces advancing towards Bagdad.

It is noteworthy that the massacre of the Armenians was directed from Erzerum.

The Russian capture in the depth of winter of a fortress situated at a height of 8,000 ft., notorious for its blizzards, was a most heroic performance. The operations began in January by a series of masterly actions whereby General Judin cleared his flanks, forcing the Turks to evacuate Melazghert, south-east of Erzerum, and retreat to Mush. He then occupied Koprikent and Hassakale, both on the great Kars-Erzerum road.

It is estimated at Petrograd that the Turks in the three weeks prior to the assault on the forts lost 80,000 out of 200,000. Of the remainder only 75,000 were efficient organised units. Of these 40,000 were required to hold the town forts. The lack of a field army to hold the outer redoubts enabled the fortress to be destroyed by long-range fire.

PETROGRAD, Feb. 17.

Erzerum is of enormous importance because it is the centre of the military administration, with huge ammunition magazines. The capture opens for the Russians a wide access northward, westward and southward, thus foiling the plans of the German Staff. Naturally the Turks will try to repair the disaster but the Russians will speedily consolidate their positions.

The Russian Press is particularly pleased that the capture will facilitate the operations of the British in Mesopotamia, besides re-echoing in the Balkans, Persia and Afghanistan.

There were fierce actions before the Turks were finally driven into the fortress. One retreating detachment was most anxious to save a park of the new German field kit-chens and formed them into a square. The Russian guns smashed them up and when the infantry rushed up they found the hungry Turks licking up the soup and stew.

Then a strangely distributed body of Turkish irregulars on the hill south-east of Erzerum was cut off. They promised surrender in the morning. As they made no sign at dawn the Russians cautiously climbed up and found the defenders frozen to death.

The mountains surrounding the fortress were littered with frozen corpses. Thousands of tons of abandoned munitions and stores were found and scattered enemy detachments were blocked up in some valleys by avalanches and starved to death.

GERMANY'S SUBMARINE POLICY.

THE AMERICAN NEGOTIATIONS.

ENTIRE QUESTION RE-OPENED.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.

Count Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, has conferred with Mr. Lansing relative to the advisability of postponing the application of Germany's submarine order in view of further negotiations.

Count Bernstorff said that Germany did not intend to sink liners.

Mr. Lansing welcomed this statement, and added that Germany's threat to sink armed merchantmen without warning re-opened the entire question of submarine warfare.

Also, that the Lusitania agreement cannot be finally accepted until the United States has determined whether anything therein will conflict with the new submarine policy.

BRITAIN'S AIR SERVICE.

"ONE OF THE GLORIES OF THE BRITISH ARMS."

LONDON, Feb. 17.

The House of Commons discussed an amendment to the Address, in reply to the Speech from the Throne expressing regret that the Speech did not mention the measures taken to strengthen the air service.

Mr. Tennant said that the air service was not intended as an offensive measure, but for protecting vulnerable points. Naval aircraft were watching the coast, and the army aircraft the land.

Admiral Sir Percy Scott was still in command of air gunnery, but was now under the War Office.

Mr. Balfour said that the air service at the front was one of the glories of the British arms. He denied that the present position as regards defence was the outcome of a policy of drift. The expansion of the air service had been prodigious, but the problem was largely one of supplying material, which was still behind-hand, though every nerve had been strained. In looking back he regretted that he did not develop the Zeppelin type of airship. The Admiralty were doing what they could to remedy this, but there was no immediate probability of over-taking the enemy's ten year's start.

The amendment was withdrawn.

FIGHTING ON THE BRITISH FRONT.

AN "INTERNATIONAL" TRENCH.

LONDON, Feb. 17.

General Sir Douglas Haig, in a communique, reports that there has been reciprocal artillery bombardments and heavy grenade fighting for the past twenty-four hours between the Ypres-Comines canal, and the Ypres-Comines railway. The fighting continues.

Otherwise, the day has been quiet along the whole British front.

The capture of 600 yards of our front line of trenches, reported yesterday, was preceded by a heavy bombardment and the explosion of five mines which rendered the trenches untenable. The attacks, which, extended along a 4,000 yards front, were repulsed everywhere else, the enemy losing considerably.

The captured trench has frequently changed hands during the past year hence it is called the "International" Trench.

THE REVOLT OF YUNNAN.

PEKING AND THE GOVERNOR.

A correspondent writes to the London Times as under:—

Your Peking correspondent, in a telegram, dated December 27, said:—"The province of Yunnan yesterday declared its independence." I understand this to mean that the Military Governor and his staff declared their independence. It is not to be supposed, by those acquainted with the remarkable province, that the people generally, prosperous merchants of Yunnan-fu, Hsian-tuan, Teng-tung, and Chai-fu of Hing-tung and Sze-mao and Yung-chang, or the artisans of the towns, last of all the great masses of tribespeople who constitute the larger part of the rustic population, are animated by a desire to cancel the Monarchical system, the promoters of the Monarchical movement, or to revert to Republicanism for its own sake.

From May to September last I was travelling in Yunnan province or staying at Yunnan-fu, the provincial capital. I journeyed overland from Blauco, in Burma, visited most of the principal cities of Yunnan, and was impressed by the warm loyalty of the middle and lower classes towards both the Government and the person of Yuan Shih-kai. Of this I am in no doubt. It is true that the European in China is easily misled as to Chinese opinion, and I claim no exemption from such liability, but the indications seemed to me conclusive. Possibly some of the experienced missionaries, such as those of the China Inland Mission at Yunnan-fu and Tai-li, than whom there are few better judges, would agree with me. How, then, comes the Military Governor—not at all a man of marked courage—to adopt such a bold course?

It is not wise to conjure up a German body as the cause of every evil, but we may see the German at work here. The North China Daily News drew attention, I think, six months ago to the danger. Let it be remembered (1) that the province of Yunnan was an independent State not many years ago, under a Mahomedan ruler, an ex-shopkeeper of Tai-li-fu, who administered the State and gave himself the title of Sultan; (2) that the Mahomedan element has been persecuted or discredited ever since the downfall of that ruler, but still retains great strength, probably enough to dominate the province; (3) that the Germans, chiefly officials or "semi-officials," consuls, merchants representing Carlowitz and Co., and other firms (chiefly interested before the European war in the import of arms) have been cultivating the friendship of the Mahomedans in China, who have been generally ignored or left alone by other peoples, if only out of loyalty to the existing regime; (4) that the German agents at Yunnan-fu, Meng-tzu, and elsewhere have been incessantly circulating, without hindrance, all the reports, true or false, of German plus Tu kiah triumphs and conquests that they could get hold of, and have been better supplied with news than anyone else; (5) that the Chinese officials throughout the province have special deep grudges against the Allies. Germany alone, of the leading Powers, appears as the innocent lambkin, doing harm to the poor Yunnanese, but resorting to the methods of the other Powers.

Accordingly, up to the time of the war in Europe, Germany had practically a monopoly of the contracts over which the Yunnan Provincial Government had control. Lately that Government has found itself in a serious financial, financial and other, as the extent of its corruption became more and more evident. Officials were sent down from Peking to overhaul matters and call the Provincial Government to order. The extraordinary defalcations and irregularities, however, defied rectification. What course easier, than, as the news seemed to be to fight, to adopt the advice that has been held out to it and defy Peking, stating all on the chance of maintaining local independence?

There is no country in Asia, outside the Himalaya region, which lends itself better than Yunnan to the operations of rebel or buccannering bands. The traveller, however mild he be, cannot help recognizing as he stands on the heights above Kiang-pi, or wanders along the mountain passes on either side of the Mekong or the Salween gorges, that one determined spirit with 200 armed men could take possession of any city in the province, except, perhaps, Yunnan-fu itself. It is an ideal country for brigands, of whom there are plenty. Indeed, every Shan and every Kachin on the Chinese side of the Burma border is a potential rebel, his hand against every man. But it is not Yuan Shih-kai, whether President or Emperor, whom they wish to fight; it is the local official, the minion of the Military Governor, whom they abominate. The Military Governor of Yunnan, whatever may be the case in other provinces, is the Governor, his civil colleagues being his own business and faithful subordinate. I need not scold your readers by attempting to delineate the moral character of the Military Governor. He has few friends outside the pro-German circle. He added several members to his harem during the two months of his residence in the city, and lived his months for the third time, with great splendour, at considerable cost as an acceptable method of winning popularity.

If it is safe to predict anything at all of China, it may be expected that the independence of Yunnan would not be followed by peace in the Empire. The neighbouring provinces of Kwei-chow is indubitably kept up with Yunnan; the prosperous and wealthy province of Szechuan would not long be left alone by the buccanneries.

MR. PICKWICK TO-DAY.

A SECOND CHRISTMAS JOURNEY TO DINGLEY DELL.

A correspondent has contributed the following article to The Times:

Christmas 1915, and Mr. Pickwick's second time on earth.

"And this is Charming Cross" exclaimed the venerable president of the Pickwick Club. "God bless my soul, how it has altered! Where do we wait for the Commodore's coach for Rochester?"

We were bound for Rochester and Dingley Dell.

"Coach, Mr. Pickwick! Coaches are things of a distant past. We are going by road, it is true, but my motor-car, and we indicated a well-appointed motor-car that was waiting hard by the historic Golden Cross."

"By one of those steam carriages!" exclaimed Mr. Pickwick, horrified. "No! You will excuse me; but I remember them too well. I recollect how, in 1826, this year before I first went to Rochester, one of Mr. Hancock and Colonel Maccaroni's steam carriages blew up in spite of its philosophical boiler!"

"Fiecs everywhere—legs—arms—wheels flying—holiday party blown to fragments—shocking, shocking!"

The voice was the voice of Jingle, but there was not a sight of him anywhere. Mr. Pickwick allowed himself to be persuaded, the no explosion was to be feared from the modern automobile and prepared to take his seat. "But," said he, "what cause all the crowds to-day?"

It was explained that London's streets were nowadays far more crowded at all times than they were in 1827.

THE FIRST VIEW OF BEAKS.

"Yes, yes, of course," agreed that amiable man; "and the people are strange. What, for example, is this in the dirty mustard-coloured clothes; the streets are crowded with them?" Mr. Pickwick had never before seen khaki; he was used only to red soldiers.

Unfortunately Mr. Pickwick forgot that his voice was loud and his gestures free. The soldier heard him and naturally thought he was being ridiculed.

"I'm Tommy," he shouted indignantly; "that's the kind of thing I am; fightin' for the likes of you, ole straw-ryan-cream dressed up like a bloomin' Tiddy Bear. 'Oo pinched 'is ole woman's doberber 'cause 'e 'adn't got no o'arcel of 'is own'!"

These allusions referred, firstly, to Mr. Pickwick's fat, fresh complexion; and, secondly, to the overcoat for motorin' which had now been lent him.

A little crowd began to collect.

"Now then, pass away there!" commanded a constable, shooing along "If you're goin' on with that car, Sir, go!"

We went. Of course, in these times, if we want to motor to Rochester, we do not go by Southwark and the main highway to Dover. We proceed by Hyde Park Corner, Lewisham Cross, Beakley, and Darenth. The route is two miles longer, but it avoids the horrible traffic of the Old and New Kent roads.

However, Mr. Pickwick must travel by the old way. He wanted to see Southwark again, just for a glance at the old White Hart, where he first saw, and engaged on the spot, Sam Weller.

"Afraid, sir, we shall not find the White Hart," it was pulled down many years ago." So we halted, instead, at the George, very like the other and now the only remaining ancient inn with galleries and courtyard in London.

There were some hop factors in the bar; the "George" is greatly frequented by such. They were discussing the character of modern beer as we entered; and we caught the radical phrase—"Made with hantibut but ops."

"That is sad hearing, Sir," said Mr. Pickwick.

"It is," returned one of the company, shortly.

"And of what, pray, is he now made, Sir, if I may ask?"

"Klimical."

"Thank you, sir, I am vastly obliged to you. And now, sir, if you will join me in a glass, I shall be delighted."

"Where on earth does that queer old stick come from?" asked the other, said.

And then, aloud, "Ain't you 'ead yot of the new drink regulations? I want to get us all into trouble!"

We extricated ourselves with difficulty, Mr. Pickwick having, after some trouble, succeeded in obtaining that warming drink of our forefathers, rum and milk.

THE OLD RUM, ROCHESTER.

And so at length into Rochester. There, as of yore, stood the Old Bull Inn—its style itself an "hotel" now—with the original "illustrious ladder" in the entrance, still behind its glass doors "developing noble joints and parts."

It is not "fifteen miles, cross-road" from Rochester to Dingley Dell; barely eight, along the Maidstone road. Uphill goes the way breasting Blue Bell Hill and by Kit's Coty House, an ancient cromlech that aroused Mr. Pickwick's antiquarian zeal. But we swiftly passed it and descended to Sandling, turning there, to the right at the Running Horse Inn. Presently the road descended a hill, with fine hedgerow timber and orchards and hop-gardens on either side. A turbulent little brook splashed down on the left: a robin, himself of a Pickwickian, portly aspect, sang a cheerful song on a leafless spray; and we rose to a lodge and turned into the right to a drive.

"Delightful situation" this, said Mr. Pickwick. He had said the like some eighty years ago.

"Welcome, gentlemen, to Manor Farm!" exclaimed a hearty voice at this point; and a bluff person, in the John Bull-like costume of an old English yeoman, presented himself—Mr. Wardle.

We entered the house. "Bless my soul!" exclaimed his Pickwick, "how you have altered it!" And, being a person of the Georgian period, not used to moving about among modern light articles of furniture, he oversteered a small, occasional table with a crash.

DINGLEY DELL.

The noise awoke me. You see, I had the day before been on a literary pilgrimage to Cobtree Manor, near Maidstone, and this evening I had fallen asleep by the fire, over "Pickwick." Cobtree, which you will find on the map midway between Aylesford and Maidstone, is the undoubted original of "Dingley Dell," but extensive alterations have entirely changed the interior of the house since Dickens wrote, and it is now a residence rather than a farm. But from its windows, can be actually seen the pond, and there is yet the kitchen, much the same, although people cannot now "rise from their seats in the chimney-corner," because a close range hills it up. So we have to picture Mr. Snodgrass drinking his cherry-brandy there, in front of the glowing fire, with the eye of faith. Nor do we find the old blunderbuss over the mantelpiece with its legend "Loaded." In short, Mr. Tywitt-Drake, the present owner of Cobtree, does not live up to the Dickens traditions as many another would do.

A curious detail is that the old beam running across the kitchen ceiling marks the division of the parishes of Beakley and Allington, the house being thus in both. The letters "B" and "A" cut into the wood draw attention to the fact.

But a much more curious thing was the sight of two lion cubs there. Mr. Tywitt-Drake keeps a menagerie. How his lion would have made the timid Pickwickians jump!
